Summary

The Steinway Louis XV case style, with its elegant, yet subdued period style carvings on the case, leg, and music desks were limited production pianos and have been coveted for for years. This piano was owned by a celebrated movie and TV family for the last several decades, was restored about 20 years ago, and received very little play since the restoration.

It's got a big, full sound and the restoration work is excellent. Steinway Louis XV pianos in excellent condition are rare, and in the "B" model are even rarer! Owner is motivated to sell, so this piano is priced well below retail!

New retail equivalent if available would be roughly $140,000.
